Description

Appealing to the nautical or seaside enthusiast Characterful table lamp bringing the spirit of the sea into the interior, would be atmospheric in a seaside home.

A large Cornish turned serpentine granite lighthouse lamp made from local stone. Standing on rough hewn rocky base with a removeable seagull either landing or taking flight. The lighthouse with a detachable cupola top and lantern and the body of the lighthouse incised and the stone polished. Lovely green colouring and patina. Cornish.

The beautiful, mottled marble retains its highly polished state with veins of yellow, green, red and white give a real natural feel to this piece echoing the ruggedness and harshness of the Cornish coast.

Condition Rewired with gold fabric flex, in-line switch, UK plug. Pat tested. Small piece of granite missing below the cupola

Measures: Diameter 27cm., 10 1/2" height 55cm., 21 1/2".
