Description

An unusual and characterful teak table with a recess for storage on lockable castors suitable for outside use in the garden, patio, conservatory. Weathered to a beautiful silver grey with traces of old paint and paper on the top and durable. The natural oil in teak ensures it can sit for decades in the landscape and the castors ensure it can be easily moved around and secured. Its very hard to date this table due to the durability of teak. English teak garden furniture has been exported all around the world, its reputation of fine quality being underlined by the fact that many pieces of original furniture like this bench can still be found in beautiful condition, bearing the test of time.
